Greetings from our President Dan Abenaim

October, the glory of Fall.

Oktoberfest and Halloween. Beer and goblins. Pumpkins and apple picking and, especially for us visual artists in New England, a riot of colors so brilliant and improbable they make you doubt your senses. Is it really possible for leaves to take on so many colors? Ochre, cadmium yellow, alizarin crimson, burnt orange, brown sienna, umber and red. Well, drive around and see for yourself!

October this year takes an added meaning for the Guild as we are featured at the Beebe Estate in Melrose. Twenty-four artists will be showing forty examples of their work and talent on every Saturday of the month. There will also be a reception on Friday, October 1st. Please join us.

As you know, Mary Lynch took the lead in organizing the previous event. She also organized an exciting program of demos for the year. I love demos, particularly when they are about something new to me. What an opportunity to learn and grow! The September demo was no exception as Janet Schwartz can do incredible things with pastels. She has created scenes viewed through water droplets. I love reflections in water, but I had never seen that. Got to try it!

As we grow, we depend more and more on technology and members' participation, so you techies out there willing to help, please drop me a line. Suggestions or ideas? I'd love to hear from you. Dabenaim1@gmail.com.

7:00 – 8:30 p.m.

(via ZOOM)

I use vibrant colors, bold lines and the illusion of mosaic tiles as a visual language of happiness, love and the beautification of visual space. My artwork is about having fun, bringing a smile to people's faces and at the same time, providing a unique way of experiencing some of our most familiar objects, places or people.

My work focuses on lines, shapes and the integration of an illusion of mosaic tile. I am inspired to use these techniques to create visual parallels of my world impressions. I create an illusion of mosaic tile that provides cohesion to my body of work and serves to provide balance, repetition, movement and other elements of strong artistic design and composition. I often think about the mosaic element as confetti to further my goal of conveying fun, exhilaration and happiness; the mosaic patterns add life and positive energy into my work. I want my audience to personally connect to my art and enjoy the experience.

Often the elements of my paintings reflect my observations of the visible world and a sense of place creating a clear, universal aesthetic language on my canvases and in my public art installations. The public art that I create is not just about the completion of the final project, but I believe that equally as important is the process of creating and/or installing the artwork on location with observers and participants.

We wish to express our heartfelt gratitude to members, Jane and Bill Booras, for undertaking a fundraising campaign to benefit the Lynnfield Art Guild. Not only did they expend their own time, talent and energy to identify donors, they also donated all the mailing material, stamps and printing costs associated with the project.

Thank you, Jane and Bill for your generosity, hard work and dedication to accomplish a successful and lucrative campaign.
